About the Property

Some homes are simply houses. Others carry history in their bones. Built in 1865 and thoughtfully reimagined for modern living, 909 Corgie Street is one of Cape May's rare historic cottages a home with genuine architectural provenance and a top-to-bottom renovation that leaves nothing to update. Set on a quiet, tree-lined street moments from the beach and downtown, it offers the kind of Cape May lifestyle that's increasingly hard to find. The welcome begins at the front porch, where mahogany decking and cedar shake siding establish a tone of refined, unhurried elegance and the feeling of a street that hasn't changed much in a century. Step inside and the home opens up a bright, open-concept layout connects living, dining, and kitchen naturally, with new hickory hardwood floors, recessed ...
